ORIOLES WIN AGAIN. THEY OUTBAT THE BLUEBIRDS

A YERITABLE SLUGGING MATCH.

AND TAKE THE GAME.

The Local Lads Make Sport of Melames's Delivery, But Jerry Noppe Makes Them Guess-Bultimore Here

Summary: Earned runs—Richmond, 2; Baltimore, 4. Three-base hits—Klopf, Lutenburg, McGann, Hughes, Two-base hits—Dundon, O'Brien, McGann, First base on errors—Richmond, 2; Baltimore, 4. Bases on balls—Off Schmidt, 3; off McJames et am won, as a matter of course, but Richmond's Bluebirds hit the ball in a lively manner, and at one time had the Orioles on the jump. All of this naturally delighted the spectators and for a time the crowd which covered the bleacheries, and ever and anon shivered from the cold, was a smiling and citing, and the ball was kept almost continuously on the bound. The first man to grasp the willow in the first inning was Klopf, the able guardian of Richmond's short-field, and he made a vicious stab at one of the curves Jimmy Mc-James sent him for dissection, and before Jimmy realized what had happened the ball was bounding over against centre-field fence, and Klopf had circled the corners as far as third bag. He came home in a few moments on a high fly to centre, which Leaby rapped out.

SCHMIDT'S PUZZLES UNRAVELLED When the Baltimoreans came to the hat they were confronted by Schmidt the little wixard who in Charlotte last week kept Boston's lads on the hip. Schmidty was in good form and mixed 'em up in great shape, but the Orioles, somehow or other, were on to him from the start, and they pounded the ball all over the lot. They batted out three runs before they stopped in the first inning, but when in the second Dundon led off for Richmond with a two-bagger had been rendering decisions as to the points of the game, called a foul a fair ball, and caused Vigneux to lose his head to such an extent that he threw wide at first and permitted three mer to cross the rubber before the sphere could be returned. The runs were practically given to Baltimore by Tate, and for a time this took all the life out of

THE LOCALS RALLIED,

In the fifth inning, however, the Blue-birds railied, and getting on to Me-dames's delivery, they batted him out of the box. Five hits, with a total of seven bases, were made off him in this one luning, and as a result five runs With second to Blancours are in This were scored to Richmond's credit. In the seventh the local lads, unable to hit Nopps, who had succeeded McJames, seemed to let down entirely, and the Orioles added four runs to their score. They hit Schmidt in a lively fashion, but were very materially assisted in their ran-getting by a very rank error made

SOME GOOD HITTERS. This settled the game so far as Rich-mond was concerned. No effort was made after this to catch up, and the Visitors had things their own way. The for they received an assurance that in Wella's team are a bunch of sure hitters,

Baltimore plays here again to-morrow afternoon, and will go home from Rich-

zel, McGann, Passed balls-Vigneus

McGraw is the same scrappy boy he has always been. He will not pay much at-tention to Mr. Brush's laws this year, and umpires are liable to find trouble

What was the matter with Clark yesterday? He can hold 'em, but he didn't do it yesterday. He said it was the glove. Lutenburg hits like a soldier. He stands at the plate like an old-timer and doesn't oppear to be afraid of the ball.

Klopf will be heard from with the stick this season. He looks like a hitter. Vigneux got rattled yesterday. He let Tate mix him up. Seybold covers an immense amount of territory. Richmond has cause to feel a pride in her outfield.

THE 'VARSITIES HIT THE BALL. Thus Winning from Lafayette, Who Played a Great Game.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, April 2 .-

(Special.)-Virginia played her first regugame was close and bitterly contested from the start. Lafayette batted out four runs in the second inning, but Virginia caught up with her in the fourth, and led until the sixth, when Lafayette went ahead again. In the ninth, however, Virginia pulled herself together and batted out five runs, winning out by a brilliant rally. Clark and Hile were the battery for Lafayette and Summersgill and Hill for Virginia. While in field-work Lafayette played the better game. Virginia's terrific hitting more than made up for the little loss she suffered by her fielding. For Lafayette, Clarke, Reese, and Worthington did the best work. For Virginia L Summersgill pitched one of the finest games ever seen at the University. All through the game he struck men out at the critical moment, and his head-work

THE DEATH OF J. G. WRIGHT, JR.

mington-Patriotic Negroes. ROANOKE, VA., April 2.-(Special.)-The remains of J. G. Wright, Jr., were brought here last night and prepared for burial, Mr. Wright was a member of the firm of Siauson & Wright, general agents for the Home Life-Insurance Company, of New York, and it was reported here that Frank Jackson, a representative of the company, had shot him dead at Christiansburg. Such proved to be false, much to the gratification of Mr. Jackson's friends in this city. The remains was taken to day to Wilmington, N. C. were taken to-day to Wilmington, N. C., where his father, Major Joshua G. Wright, lives, for interment, His father was for many years on the Governor's staff in North Carolina, and deceased staff in North Carolina, and deceased was a business-man of unusual ability, being considered one of the best under-writers in the South. Mrs. Wright, who was visiting relatives in Mt. Jackson, arrived here this morning.

G. N. Foster has received a letter from his partner, H. L. Hensil, dated Sheeps Camp, Alaska, where the company of Roanokers, bound for the gold-fields, are anow-bound. They are eighteen miles from Dyea, and for several days before camp-ing they travelled at the rate of four miles per day. The deep snow in that country is the greatest drawback to locomotion.

The following gentlemen comprise the grand jury for the April term of the Hustings Court, which will begin Mon-day: Thomas Engleby, C. E. Bare, George L. Bennett, I. E. Boche, E. G. Brindle, E. L. Flippo, Colonel A. Stone, John D. Carr, and Daniel Gaskins.

The colored people of this city have is-sued a call for all negroes of Roanske who will interest themselves to make preparation to bear arms in defence of national honor and Cuban independence. They will meet on Monday night. It is believed there will be a hearty response

Mrs. Kate McInners died last night at (Special.)—Virginia played ner first regu-lar college game to-day against Lafay-ette, winning by a score of 12 to 8. The 63 years. The funeral took place this d the remains were interred in the City Cemetery.

What They Most Object To. To the Editor of the Dispatch: In your issue of the 2d instant you do not state the most important part of the not state the most imbortant part of the law that the junk-dealers object to—that is, where they have to hold their goods five days before shipping. No dealer of limited means can hold his stock five days from the time he buys, and if they buy on to-day's prices they cannot tell how much they will lose by holding how much they will lose by holding five days, for there is no business that fluctuates in value more than the junk-business. This is the part of the law that we object to. J. C. SMITH. Yours.

War With Cuba. "Oh! Judgment, thou hast fled to brutal

"Oh! Judgment, thou hast fied to brutal beast, and men have lost their reason."

I have read everything on this subject. Mr. Bryan's statement in the Dispatch to-day lays down sound principles. Some crazy people wish to declare war "before breakfast." I think it just and right to "recognize Cuba." Give her all your moral support; only this at present. If it leads to war, accept it bravely and honorably fight it out. I should always prefer to be on the defensive. always prefer to be on the defensive. We are too big to "bulldoze." If I thought God's hand was in this trouble, I would say nothing. The Late J. T. Bryant.

Some men's departure needs more than a passing notice. Mr. Bryant's life was full of events of a public character. He was a railroad man, from youth serving the public. Brought up by the Chesa-peake and Ohio, he was transferred to the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Poto-mae thirty-four years ago. This company he served with devotion till death, He was the author of several new and important devices, which it was hoped would have brought him wealth, and which are still in use. As "Master Mechanic," his close attention to duty had made the safety of the road proverbial, Accidents were very uncommon. His long connection with the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railroad is proof of his efficiency and an honor to his company. He had been a fatihful son to an aged and widowed mother, long since gone to her reward. He left a wife and six children to honor his name. He was upright in his dealings with his fels low man. His disease was long and dis-tressing, and he was made wiser by its chastening. We believe his end was
